MARINES DRIVE TO MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD

PATTON STAGING DRIVE

Hun Resistance To Third Army Spotty—Russians Maintain Sweep

United States Marines drove on Iwo Jima's central airfield today in a general advance across the battle-torn island which netted gains of more than half a mile at some points.

A communiqué by Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disclosed that the two Marine divisions were going ahead yard by yard under heavy machine gun, mortar, small arms and rocket fire. "Gains were made along the whole line and generally were about 500 to 1,000 yards in extent," the communiqué said.

Nimitz announced that up to this morning, the third day of the invasion, the Marines had suffered 3,650 casualties in killed, wounded or missing.

After capturing the first airfield toward the southern end of the island, the Marines by-passed the lower end of the second field and drove straight for its center.

On the western front in Europe, the American Third Army broke through another section of the Siegfried line and advanced as much as 5 1/2 miles on a broad front. Enemy resistance was spotty and field dispatches told of widespread German surrenders. The Canadian First Army in the north was meeting powerful German counter-attacks which almost halted its drive for the Ruhr.

The Russians maintained their flanking sweep against Berlin from Silesia. Tanks and infantry battled through the suburbs of the stronghold of Guben after shattering the last 20 miles of the enemy's lower Bober river line. The Second White Russian Army driving for the Baltic pushed to within 40 miles of Danzig after advances of up to seven miles on a 30-mile front in the Polish corridor.

In the fighting on Iwo, 750 miles south of Tokyo, the main American effort was centered on Motoyama airfield No. 2, while other forces were storming the steep, fortified Suribachi volcano at the southern tip of the island.

By nightfall yesterday, the Americans had established a line across the island just beyond captured Motoyama airfield No. 1. (Continued on Page Two)

UNION ABANDONS PLEDGE AGAINST STRIKES IN WAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Labor's long-simmering revolt against government reluctance to grant wage increases broke out into the open today with the decision of the powerful Textile Workers Union (CIO) to abandon its no-strike pledge.

The decision came just a few hours before the War Labor Board approved wage increases for 54,000 textile and 140,000 packing house workers.

WLB ruled, however, that its wage awards could not take effect until it had ironed out a dispute with Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson over the question of price relief.

Emil Rieve, president of the textile union, charged that the order "merely confirms the union position that the board is no longer a free agent, able to make its own decisions."

"In effect," he said, "the board says that it recognizes the fact that cotton-rayon textile workers receive substandard wages but that it cannot give them what equity and justice demand because Vinson has tied the board's hands."

The union's repudiation of the "no-strike" pledge was based on the specific charge that cotton textile manufacturers had used political pressure to prevent wage increases for cotton workers.

SENATE REJECTS ROOSEVELT PLEA FOR WORK BILL

Lest Drastic Substitute May Gain Approval Of Committee

PRESIDENT LOSES 12 TO 6

Opponents Of Labor Draft Back Plan To Balk Job Hoarding

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—The senate military affairs committee hoped to complete its own version of manpower legislation today after rejecting President Roosevelt's new plea for the work-or-else bill.

The committee was expected to approve a less drastic substitute, sponsored by opponents of a labor draft and designed to place the emphasis on elimination of labor hoarding in war plants.

The substitute was sponsored by a bi-partisan group of five senators headed by Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo. Joining him were Sens. Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., Harley M. Kilgore, D., W. Va., Homer Ferguson, R., Mich., and Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn.

The measure won a tentative victory yesterday when the committee—despite an eleven-hour presidential appeal for the house-approved work-or-else bill—voted 12 to 6 to consider the substitute.

The O'Mahoney bill would grant War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes power to survey manpower in private industry, and the Army and Navy as well, with a view to eliminating labor hoarding and waste.

Committee Chairman Elbert D. Thomas, D., Utah, said the survey would include uniformed personnel as well as civilians employed in ordnance plants, warehouses and similar supply installations.

Surveys of manpower use in private industry, war plants as well as less-essential activities, would be made by the war manpower commission under direction of Byrnes.

In addition, the substitute would:

1. Authorize WMC to establish ceilings on the number of workers any plant or industry may employ.

2. Require WMC approval on job changing.

WMC authority over individuals would be confined largely to setting channels into essential jobs. Persons moving from one city to another under WMC approval would be allowed travel costs.

Penalties against employers for exceeding manpower ceilings would be more severe.

If the violator held a government contract, he would not be allowed to include in his cost of operation the salary paid excess workers. In addition, the cost of such wages would not be deductible on federal income tax returns.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, Feb. 21—Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, today held the Legion of Merit for exceptional service with Admiral William F. Halsey's Third Fleet.

The award was made by Halsey, for whom Stassen served as aide, assistant chief of staff and flag secretary, a Pacific fleet headquarters announcement said.

The citation said Stassen rendered "exceptionally meritorious service" during a series of "highly successful offensive missions against the enemy, including attacks on Nansai Shoto island, Formosa and the Luzon-Visayan-Mindanao areas in the Philippines, French Indo-China bases and Hongkong-Canton-Hainan areas in support of Central and Southwest Pacific amphibious operations covering the period from June 15, 1944, to Jan. 26, 1945."

ROOSEVELT SEEN AVOIDING WILSON'S BLUNDER

A SMART MOVE to avoid the error committed by President Woodrow Wilson in 1919 and which prevented American entry into the League of Nations, is seen in President Roosevelt's appointment of Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan to the American delegation to the San Francisco United Nations conference in April. Wilson antagonized the Senate by his failure to include any members of that body in his peace delegation to Versailles. A group of embittered Republican senators, under the able leadership of Henry Cabot Lodge, later succeeded in obtaining Senate rejection of the League of Nations, which Wilson sponsored and fought for.

PEACE PARLEY WAITS ON PARIS

France Likely To Accept Partnership Despite Labor Differences

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Diplomatic quarters believed today that France will accept a partnership in the San Francisco security conference despite differences between President Roosevelt and Gen. Charles DeGaulle.

The conference, scheduled to begin April 25, will seek to lay the groundwork for international cooperation in years to come. French refusal to participate, it was said, could seriously threaten France's role in shaping future world developments.

Washington, London and Moscow are awaiting word from Paris on two points. These are (1) her approval of the voting procedure developed for the new league of nations by the Big Three at the Crimea conference, and (2) her decision on the invitation to attend the San Francisco meeting where all the United Nations will discuss that formula and other problems connected with new world peace machinery.

Lacking a better explanation, diplomatic circles were inclined to write off French delay as a reflection of DeGaulle's pique at being excluded from the Crimea conference and at Mr. Roosevelt's inability to visit France after the Big Three meeting.

The White House revealed yesterday that Mr. Roosevelt had expressed regret to DeGaulle because he could not get to Paris, but that he had in turn asked the French leader to meet him in Algiers. He refused, the White House said, and Mr. Roosevelt was "most disappointed."

Although France was not represented at the Crimea conference, she was not overlooked. The Big Three reached several major political agreements with the expectation that France would participate in their operation. For example, she was reserved a seat on the council that will control and occupy Germany.

The state department said yesterday that France had asked for and received a clarification of the Crimean report. This was understood to concern the declaration on liberated areas, which proposed

BRITAIN SETS DEATH DATE FOR YANK KILLER

LONDON, Feb. 21—The date of execution of Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, Boston, Mass., paratrooper, and Elizabeth Marina Jones, British strip tease dancer, was set today for March 8.

They were convicted of the robbery-murder of a British taxi driver.

Hulten will be hanged at Pentonville and Mrs. Jones, wife of a British soldier, at Holloway. The date of execution was fixed by the home secretary's office following the decision yesterday by a three-judge appellate court denying their appeals for a new trial.

Although the execution date was set, it was pointed out that the action did not necessarily mean the home secretary had ruled finally on the cases. He has the power to reprieve the death sentences imposed on the American soldier and the 18-year-old dancer.

SUBS LAND HARD BLOWS ON JAPS

Escort Carrier, Cruiser, Destroyer, 22 Merchant Ships Sent Down

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—American submarines have sent a Japanese escort carrier, a large converted cruiser, a destroyer and 22 merchant vessels to the bottom in new operations the Navy announced today.

The large converted cruiser was believed to be an 18,000-ton converted merchant ship.

This latest submarine haul included the three warships, two transports, three cargo transports and 17 cargo vessels, the communiqué said.

Total sinkings by American submarines since the beginning of the war now total 1,025 vessels. These include 100 warships.

Since Jan. 1, the Navy has announced sinking by U. S. submarines of 121 vessels—an average of more than two a day in the last two months.

All the sinkings announced today took place in Far Eastern waters, close to the enemy's homeland and stolen southern empire.

INTER-A MEET GETS UNDER WAY

Emphasis Put On Post-War Economic Solidarity And Reorganization

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21—The Interamerican conference on problems of war and peace opens today. Official emphasis was on post-war economic solidarity and reorganization of the Pan-American setup to fit into the new world security system.

Unofficially the Argentine problem overshadowed all others—despite efforts to defer any consideration of it until other issues are settled.

President Manuel Avila Camacho formally opens the conference at 8 p. m. (EWT) tonight with an address in the chamber of deputies to the delegates of 19 of the 21 American republics. Argentina still is excluded from the conference and El Salvador will not be represented until her new government is inaugurated March 1.

Earlier in the day the heads of the 19 delegations met at Chapultepec castle overlooking the city. They are to elect Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla as chairman of the conference, designate four major committees, nominate members for the committees, and formulate rules and regulations for the conference.

U. S. Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr., will speak tomorrow night.

Stettinius conferred last night with Padilla and it was understood, agreed with plans to divide the conference into four major committees. They will be:

1. A committee on continued cooperation in the war effort. U. S. Ambassador Adolph A. Berle Jr. to Brazil probably will be the U. S. representative.

2. A committee on world organization. Stettinius, who was chairman of the Dumbarton Oaks conference, will probably be not only the U. S. representative but also chairman of this one. He has brought with him the decisions on this problem reached by the Big Three at Crimea.

3. A committee on Interamerican organization—how to adapt it to the new world organization. Assistant Secretary of State Nelson

Russian Annexation Of Eastern Poland Draws Fire In Commons

DETAILS ARE REFUSED

Prime Minister Expected To Go Before House In Fighting Mood

LONDON, Feb. 21—Prime Minister Churchill told critics of Russia's annexation of Eastern Poland and the Baltic states today that the Atlantic charter was "a guide, not a rule."

He was replying to questions in commons whether decisions on the future of the Baltic states and Poland at this time did not contradict Article Two of the Atlantic charter.

Churchill refused resolutely to elaborate in any way on the Crimean conference during the question period. He is scheduled to make a statement on the conference at the opening of a two-day debate in the house next week.

Churchill was expected to go before the house in a fighting mood Tuesday and defend the Crimea decision on Poland to the hilt. Observers believed he would ask a vote of confidence, as he has in recent debates. If so he was expected to win overwhelmingly, although many members probably will abstain from voting as a sign of disapproval.

Maurice Peterick, a national conservative, had asked Churchill whether Article Two of the Charter applied to Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia and Poland. Article Two expressed the desire of the subscribing powers to see no territorial changes not in accord with the freely-expressed wishes of the people concerned.

Principles Reaffirmed

Russia joined the United States and Britain in the Crimea declaration in reaffirming their faith in the principles of the Atlantic charter.

Earlier, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden dodged a direct question whether Britain had evidence that Poles east of the Curzon line desired to be incorporated in Russia.

"Are you not bound by the Atlantic charter to consider these populations before transferring them?" Prof. Douglas Savory, a conservative, asked. The house cheered the question.

Eden replied that the house "no doubt" knew the strength of the national Ukrainian movement which had existed in this territory for many years. However, Britain could not be expected to have de-

Deluge of Clothing Is Received for Children Of Burned Out Families

Children of two families whose home was destroyed by fire Wednesday were assured of warm clothing and shelter.

Through the generosity of Circleville residents the 14 minor children of the Rance Wolfe and Fred Stevens family were to receive complete outfits of clothing.

When word of the fire reached teachers at High street and Corwin street school buildings they told their pupils about the loss of their belongings by members of the families. The rest of the day pupils brought clothing of all kinds to the schools. Pupils at Franklin street building also have responded generously to an appeal made by teachers.

The residence of Dr. W. F. Heine was made a "clearing house" for the articles received. All 10 of the Wolfe children, ranging in age from 11 days to 14 years, were outfitted. Clothing also is available for the four Stevens children who are in school and it will probably be delivered Wednesday. In addition to clothing sent by parents of school children many other families have given clothing.

The response was so generous that some clothing will be held in reserve for future emergencies. All of the clothing has been sorted according to ages and each child will be outfitted with enough clothing of his particular size.

The Stevens family is living with relatives. Mrs. Wolfe and the smaller children are staying at the Heine residence while others are being made to find a house for them and it is expected both families will be located soon.

and only 500 yards from the main runway of the second field. The marines at that time held one-third of the island's eight square miles.

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz first communique today said no estimate of American casualties was yet available. A Tokyo broadcast, undoubtedly exaggerated, said more than 7,000 Americans had been killed or wounded and 100 tanks disabled. Tokyo reported American reinforcements were being landed continually.

In the Philippines, heavy fighting continued in Southern Manila, where the Japanese were under the fire of flame throwers and artillery in a shrinking pocket in the old quarter of the capital.

It was announced that Japanese casualties in the first six weeks of the Luzon campaign exceeded 92,000. The Americans lost 12,929 in killed, wounded or missing, a ratio of 7 to 1 against the enemy.

Fight At Corregidor

The Japanese were still holding out in the rocky holes of Corregidor at the mouth of Manila Bay. Airplanes aided the American ground troops in cleaning up the fortress.

The fighting on the two most active sectors along Germany's west wall presented a marked contrast. Field dispatches said the Germans were giving way at many points in front of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army, although they fought well at others.

Almost 7,000 German prisoners were taken in the last four days. In some places the enemy surrendered by hundreds, quitting strong defensive positions without a fight. The Third Army took 24 German towns and villages and were fighting in two others after a 24-hour advance which netted 2,400 prisoners.

At the northern end of the front the picture was different. The Germans sent strong infantry and tank reinforcements into a series of counter-attacks which slowed the Allied advance considerably.

The hardest fighting was along the left flank of the Allied line in the Calcar area, where the Germans were holding fast to that stronghold and the network of roads leading to the Ruhr. Canadian First Army troops mopped up scattered German sniper nests inside captured Goch and pushed spearheads east of the town to take the hamlets of Buchholt and Halvenboom.

MORE MODERATE WEATHER HELPS LIFT GAS BAN

More favorable weather and savings of gas by domestic consumers have permitted pressure in the gas lines to improve sufficiently to warrant removal of the emergency restrictions issued over the weekend, Ohio Fuel Gas company officials announced Wednesday.

All but a few industries have been restored to service. In raising the restrictions the company warned it still will be necessary for gas customers to economize in the use of gas to help prevent a recurrence of this condition.

Tuesday's high temperature was 35 while low Wednesday morning was 34. Weather Observer Roy Hawkes reported. Precipitation totaled .10 inch and reported there was trace of snow.

FRANCE, ITALY PLAN RENEWAL OF RELATIONS

PARIS, Feb. 21—Authoritative sources said today that France and Italy would sign an agreement within two weeks renewing diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Italy broke relations with France in June 1940 with a "stab in the back" declaration of war while French armies were reeling under a German blitzkrieg in the northeast.

Under the new agreement, it was understood that Italy renounces all claims of special privileges for Italians in Tunisia. Italians there henceforth will be treated the same as other foreigners, though Italian schools may be permitted to continue.

Negotiations struck a snag several weeks ago when Premier Ivanhoe Bonomi of Italy claimed that the 1937 convention granting special extraterritorial rights to Italians in the African colony still was valid.

The French took a firm stand however, that the Italian declaration of war invalidated the convention. The Italian government eventually yielded.

Couve de Murville, French diplomat representative in Rome, was expected to return to the Italian capital soon from Paris to conclude the agreement.

tailed, factual, up-to-date evidence on this matter, he said.

"This is not purely a Polish-Russian question," Eden said. "It is also very much a Ukrainian question. . . and I know there is a large Ukrainian majority in this area (Eastern Galicia)."

"How can the government have arrived at their decision if they have not factual information?" pressed Laborite Richard Stokes.

"If you wish to debate this further, I will gladly do so next week," Eden said.

"Is not this a surrender to power politics?" demanded Maj. Gen. Sir Alfred Knox, a conservative, amid cheers.

The question went unanswered. Eden announced that Britain

When Nazi Germany's military fortunes began to wane and Berlin itself came within range of the Red Army there were rumors that Hitler and a picked corps of his followers would retreat to Berchtesgaden and fight on in the mountains around that fortress.

that they were ready to receive the American transport planes."

Fotitch said he notified authorities here. Further negotiations took a few weeks, and then one day "17 American Liberators landed on Gen. Mihailovich's airfield and evacuated the first group of 254 airmen," he said. He added that the operations continued until all "were brought safely home."

"Even this action," Fotitch wrote, "did not prevent a continuation of slanderous accusations against Gen. Mihailovich, and I am not aware what recognition was given him for this contribution to the Allied cause. Probably the general did not expect any credit, because he felt that he was merely carrying out his duties as an ally."

"Nevertheless, today, when the story of this rescue is disclosed, credit should be given to those who deserve it, and should not be presented as an anonymous action which occurred somewhere in the Balkans."

CONDITIONS FAR FROM ROSY IN JAP HOMELAND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Japanese on the home front are pulling their belts tighter.

An Officer of War Information report revealed today that things are far from rosy in the Land of the Rising Sun.

But as yet, it said, there is no indication of "a crack in morale." The report, based on information from various government agencies, also said:

The Japanese are living on 20 per cent less food than they had before the war. Compare that with this country's nine per cent rise in food consumption over prewar levels.

All food and clothing, as well as matches, medicine, gasoline and fuel are rationed—sugar at a half-pound a person a month, vegetables four pounds and rice allotments 20 pounds—a reduction of 10 pounds monthly since 1943.

"Bargaining in the dark"—Japanese term for patronizing the black market—is a common practice. Many Japanese are claiming "ghost" relatives to obtain extra food rations at the risk of a 1,000 yen fine and a year in jail.

Women are asked to "cut off your long kimono sleeves" and also substitute overalls for kimonos in an effort to save clothing.

Despite control, rental prices in Tokyo skyrocketed 150 per cent between 1937 and 1943. There is a severe housing shortage.

UNDERWOOD TO SCAN CASES OF DOOMED TRIO

COLUMBUS, Feb. 21—Mell Underwood, Jr., executive secretary to Gov. Frank J. Lausche, will review the cases of three Negroes scheduled to die in the electric chair March 7 for the holdup slaying of Jacob Reinstatler, aged Cincinnati jeweler.

The state supreme court last week rejected the trio's appeal from the death sentence. Executive clemency is their only hope to escape the electric chair. They are James Jenkins, Willie Brown and Johnnie Mae Gardner, a woman.

HIGHWAY PATROLMAN IS NAMED HEAD OF BIS

COLUMBUS, Feb. 21—Ralph W. Alvis, Sebring inspector of the State Highway Patrol, today was named acting superintendent of the boys' industrial school at Lancaster. The appointment was made by Frazier Reams, state welfare director, who had been ordered by Governor Frank Lausche to stop wholesale escapes at BIS.

C. L. Thomas, who has been acting superintendent, returned to the school staff.

JAYCEES READY FOR AWARD OF SERVICE MEDAL

A distinguished service award will be presented to a local citizen Tuesday night at the Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting to be held at Hanley's restaurant.

The award will be made to a young man selected by a citizens' committee in recognition of the work he has done for the community and for his country during 1944. None of the members of the committee is a member of the Junior Chamber.

Invited to attend the meeting are members of the senior Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis club members and other guests. Reservations for the dinner may be made by contacting Boyd Stout, Harry Graef, Karl Johnson or Mack Parrett. Reservations must be made by Saturday night.

Speaker at the main meeting will be Mitchell Darling, Lakewood, Ohio, who will talk on "Caring Cadets." Jaycees who have heard him at meetings in other cities report he is an outstanding speaker.

Several Circleville Jaycees attended the Columbus organization's dinner meeting Tuesday night at which Mayor James Rhodes received the distinguished service award given by the capital city group.

ROAD NEEDS HIT CASH BOXES OF STATE AGENCIES

COLUMBUS, Feb. 21—Ohio's various state-supported agencies today faced the drab prospect of getting along on even less money than they had expected.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche said the amount of money available will be smaller than anticipated because an additional $10,000,000 must be diverted for highway maintenance and repair during the next two years.

The increase will be necessary because of storm damage to the state highway system during the severe winter and a backlog of work which was not completed previously because of manpower and material shortages, Lausche said.

He added that the problem is complicated by the fact that estimated revenues from the gasoline license taxes will drop about $10,000,000 during the next two years because of wartime driving restrictions.

The highway department will need approximately $40,000,000 for highway maintenance and repair during the next biennium as compared with $33,952,000 in 1943 and 1944, he said.

Library Has Books On Long Term Loan To Williamsport School

Circleville public library now has on long term loan to Williamsport high school library more than 225 books for the use of students there, Mrs. Enid Denham, Circleville librarian announced Wednesday.

Although the Circleville library county-wide book-mobile service has been discontinued, the library has been willing to share its books with county residents, Mrs. Denham said. When Williamsport appealed to the state library for help in its organization and establishment of a high school library, state authorities suggested Mrs. Denham might be able to help. The Circleville library board consented to permit her to undertake the work in collaboration with her duties at Circleville.

Through the efforts of Superintendent Joseph Horst, Williamsport schools have obtained funds from many interested donors for the purchase of up-to-date reference books and a good basic book collection. These have been processed and catalogued and otherwise prepared by the librarian and a student aide and many will be ready for circulation at an early date.

To supplement this collection 100 books have been borrowed from the high school collection at Circleville public library and 125

COUNTY SAVES 1,000,000 POUNDS OF WASTE PAPER

Pickaway county supplies 1,100,000 pounds to Ohio's waste paper salvage collections during 1944, the salvage division of the WPB at Columbus announced Wednesday.

The per capita quota for the county is 60 pounds and 46.5

pounds per capita were collected, or 77 percent of the quota. The average monthly per capita collection was 3.9 pounds.

The Pickaway total and average was better than neighboring Ross and Fayette counties but under the showings of the Franklin and Fairfield counties. Ross county had 1.41 pounds per capita average while Fayette's average was 2.5 pounds. Franklin county had a 6.9 average and Fairfield

RADAR COURSE BECKONS TO MEN FROM 17 TO 38

Men between the ages of 17 and 38 still have a chance to get into the Navy's Radar training course, Lt. Commander L. E. Oehring, officer in charge of the Navy recruiting for the Columbus area announced Wednesday.

He stated the training was of the type which will prepare men for the work in the radio fields of the post-war world. It is training which would be impossible for men to acquire in civilian life at the present time, he stated. He said the course given men who qualify is a condensed college course in certain subjects pertaining to the radio field.

Full information as to qualifications and advantages to be had in the Navy's Radar training is available at the Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office building, Chillicothe. Recruiter J. E. Marsh is in charge of the station.

BLACK SELFISHNESS

THE government has started a nationwide campaign to stamp out black markets. The great shame to this country is that such a campaign is necessary.

There is absolutely no justification for black market dealings here. True, in war-time luxuries are scarce. Our large supplies must feed not only ourselves and our fighting men, but often the armed forces and civilians of countries whose crops have been consumed by war ravages of which we can have little conception.

Naturally the rest of us must take substitutes. There is still more than enough to choose from. The contents of any butcher shop, even without poultry or prime ribs, are beyond the imagination of the marketing housewife of any country in Europe. The American woman who turns whining from the counter to slip a dollar a pound to the furtive black market dealer with one scraggly chicken for sale is robbing her own pocket, not just once, but for a long time to come, for that is one way inflation starts.

Her husband, who pays a dollar a pack for cigarettes, puts a premium on illegal sales which makes it impossible to buy them at a fair price.

Both husband and wife, by their bad sportsmanship in the sharing of what are not necessities but luxuries are branding themselves as selfish enemies of their relatives in the fighting forces.

MYSTERIES IN MOVIES

WHY are not more mystery stories filmed? In book form they are as a class so popular that the same appeal might be expected on the screen. While some have achieved success, the number is unexpectedly small.

The answer has just been given by Richard Mealand, writing in the Publishers' Weekly. He says that while fiction fans like to be fooled, movie addicts don't. In the "whodunit" novel, the villain is apt to be the person least expected, some one who may have been very appealing until the mask was stripped from his face at last. In the movies the audience resents having people whom it likes revealed as villains. When that happens, they go out, saying, "What a lousy picture!"

The most popular mystery films have been those like Sherlock Holmes, Charlie Chan and the "Thin Man" series, where the detective has a winning personality of his own. The audience comes for his sake, and does not care greatly who the villain may be.

Does all this mean that the real mystery fans don't go to the movies? If so, why are the cinema houses so packed?

AFL Leaders Fearing
Domination by Lewis

New Senator and Wife
Operate a Dairy Farm

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—These current stories about the intention of the United Mine Workers to call a general coal strike at some soon and inopportune moment are merely hunches, or guesses done in the approved Washington manner.

The mine workers, so I learn on excellent authority, have not made up their own minds what they will do—whether or not they will call a strike.

If I, too, were guessing I would say that if the American Federation of Labor accepts the mine workers once again into the fold, they will not strike. The mine workers want to make character. They want to "belong" again. But they want to belong on their own terms.

Naturally, such terms will be dictated by John L. Lewis. I cannot imagine Lewis being exactly meek about anything. Perhaps this is the reason the AFL seems reluctant to admit the mine union workers. They fear eventual domination by Lewis.

ADAMANT THOMAS C. HART, U. S. N., just appointed by Connecticut's Governor Baldwin to the United States Senate to fill the unexpired term of the late United States Senator Francis Maloney, is undoubtedly the Navy—in person.

After a lifetime of training and experience he became commander of the Asiatic fleet in 1939. He was retired from the Navy in 1942

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—The return of the speakeasy and the loss of thousands of jobs were cited today by many cabaret proprietors as the logical results to be expected from the federal government's enforcement-barbed "request" for a nationwide entertainment curfew that will turn free-spending war-time New York into a 12 o'clock town.

"We're for anything that will help win the war," was the general refrain, "but—"

The night club men, who will be hardest hit by imposition of the midnight curfew next Monday, fail to see how the ban would conserve fuel, release manpower that would be useful in industry or ease transportation. They feel that legitimate, well-policed businesses are being unduly penalized and that the heyday of the racketeer will return. Many believe there is considerably more behind the ban than the announced reasons—that it is an opening wedge for prohibition.

"This is an open bid to the racketeers to put their money to work reviving the speakeasies," said Lou Walters, owner of the famed Latin Quarter. "The result will be a triumph for the black market because your hideaway operator won't be able to buy legitimately."

"Thousands of speakeasies!" was the way explosive Dario Borzani, co-owner of La Martinique, expressed his views. "People aren't going home just because we won't be open. They've got money to spend and they'll be fair game for any law-breaking persons who want to help them spend it."

The economic aspects of the situation is this: The big clubs which give elaborate revues depend on at least two and mainly three shows to put them in the black nightly. Three shows are now out of the question. The only way two can be given is to start the second one about 10:30 p. m. But at 10:30 p. m. you can go snowblind in any club looking at the tablecloths. The lull between the dinner and supper trade is at its worst.

The chief complaint among these operators is that a 1 a. m. curfew would permit them to carry on in something near the style to which they, their employees and customers have been accustomed. But under the order that their places must be cleared by midnight, the supper crowd will barely have arrived before it will have to be ejected. For all practical purposes business will end at 11:30 p. m.

Whatever expedient these big clubs adopt in order to survive, entertainers are going to lose out. In some cases the whole elaborate revue policy probably will be shelved, in others the casts will be greatly reduced. There also will be curtailment in the matter of waiters, bus boys and other club employees.

Vincent Jacobi, president of the AFL combined theatrical and amusement crafts council, which embraces 27 New York locals all the way from waiters to performers, said he didn't see how the cafe men would be able to make a go of it and that this meant many of his union members would be out of jobs shortly.

Noah L. Braunstein, spokesman for the cafe owners guild, said the order would result in "a lot of unemployment," adding that it "will be a definite invitation for the horrors of speakeasy days."

The club owners also were quick to point out the revenue loss the government faces if the curfew curtails or ends their operations. A place like the Latin Quarter, for example, will pay about $30,000 monthly in direct cabaret tax alone. The

Some of the more pointed of his remarks are summarized here.

Dr. Church's Ideas

First, Dr. Church believes that there is not just one thing that is the cause of a cold, or rather that is a cold. This is certainly true. One fellow has an old sinus light up, another a residual spot of infection in the bronchial tubes, another has a regular rhinitis, but they all say they have caught cold and discuss all of those varied things as if they were the same thing, so no wonder with everybody talking at cross purposes, the subject gets mixed up.

Even if germs are the cause of colds, says the doctor, germs are not the only things involved. "My florist has barrels of grass seed in his store, but it does not grow. Why? Because it is not in the proper soil. It requires for growth among other things a great deal of decayed animal and vegetable matter. So these cold germs do not propagate and grow if they do not find the proper conditions."

Proper Conditions

What are the proper conditions? Well, we call them colds and cold weather certainly must have something to do with their propagation. And preferably cold, damp, and raw weather. Some sort of exposure of the skin conduces to the development of a cold. The reflex reactions of the skin are very real. Very superficial burns of the skin if they cover a fairly large part of the surface of the body are dangerous to the point of fatality. Why? The heart, the lungs, the stomach, the brain are all intact. But that extra six square inches of destroyed skin can cause death. Why, therefore, if a large part of the skin becomes wet and cold and loses its active circulation should not that constitute a reason for the preparation of decreased resistance and lay the ground for a proper soil for the germs of a cold just as the wet spring soil is the proper place to make the seeds, that seem so dead in the barrel, grow?

The scientists will all scoff at this, but the fact remains that soil is just as important for the propagation of colds as for seeds. Where do the cold germs go in the summer?

mer time? Well, they must be around, but they seldom find a good place to light.

The skin is a great organ for getting rid of intoxications and when we put a large part of it out of commission by wet and cold, plus stuffing ourselves out of all countenance with too much food and all kinds of trash that comes under the head of food, we add to the possibilities of susceptibility to colds.

Here are the doctor's rules for reducing the possibility of catching cold:

First, keep your skin in good physiological commission, as much of it, as much of the time as weather will permit. This, according to the ideas advanced in the above paragraph.

Second, eat according to your work. Most people lead fairly sedentary lives, doing light work comparable to a one horse power steam engine, but they stoke up as if they were doing five horse power. All these extra calories have to go somewhere.

Third, get enough of all the general constituents of food—proteins, starches, sugars, fats, minerals and vitamins.

Fourth, drink at least ten large tumblers of water a day. This is five pints. The kidneys excrete three pints, the lungs one pint, leaving a pint to keep the skin working.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Aggie paddled fairly swiftly, although he was not hurrying. They were soon out of sight. Beth leaned back, trailed her fingers, absorbed the sun, and watched the man. "It's swell," she said, "of you and Sarah to offer to take me in."

He nodded. "We heard you were about to strangle Mrs. D. Hence the missionary invitation." "You're funny. You have the most convenient ear in the camp. Everything you want to know—you find out. Like—Danielle's coming back."

"The knowledge was thrust upon me."

"Are you in love with Danielle?" He stopped paddling. There was a twinkle in his eyes. "Heaven forbid!"

Beth smiled. "That's no answer. Are you?"

"Not I. Not Agamemnon!"

"Well, you've thought about her a lot. Asked Sarah about her. Asked me, even."

"Just trying to figure her out," he answered. And he had been trying to assure himself that there was—or was not—a chance Danielle might have killed Jim Calder with her father's help. . . . The possibility had taunted him ever since she had gone back to New York with her father's body. Gone independently, sadly—refusing companionship or aid.

Beth watched him think. "Do you still wonder if she did it? She could have, you know, if she'd wanted to."

"Wes Wickman's satisfied that if he catches up with Hank Bogarty, he'll have all the answers. So am I."

Soon Aggie smiled at her. "Want to turn back?"

"In a minute." Beth's voice had sunk so that it was difficult to hear, even in the drowsy quiet on the glassy water. After a pause, she asked, "Are you shy?"

"Why—yes, and no. Less so, every day."

"You know I'm kind of batty about you. Everybody else does. You're quite romantic, Aggie."

"There were rumors," he replied. "Jack told me—one night—that you were selling my stock above par. He said that you had been taken by my manly finger. It's misleading. I got this way doing hard work—not by the glamorous, athletic route of the boys in the advertisements."

"Yes," she said. "But it wasn't that."

He felt fearfully uncomfortable. "I don't expect to get married, ever, Beth. My work means too much. I wouldn't ask anybody to share the rough part—or to be alone while I went at it."

"Nevertheless," she said quietly, "I still—feel that way. And you can do whatever you like about it. It's funny—kind of—since I thought you were such a lemon when I first saw you!"

Aggie cast his eyes about, seeking a way to change the mood and the subject of their conversation. "It's nice to have somebody like you around." His gaze touched the place where Danielle's canoe had once been drawn up. "This is the second time I've been up at this end of the lake. Gives me a funny feeling—somehow."

Beth did not respond for a long time. Then she said slowly, "Yes. You were here with Danielle. I saw you come back—remember? She dumped you!"

"She'd gone ashore here," he said, as if he had not listened to Beth. "Wonder why?"

"Keeping another date with Bill—or somebody?"

"I doubt it," Aggie answered. He turned the bow of the canoe toward the shallows. His eyes became introverted. Beth watched the change with a face as expressionless as his. He looked at her, after a moment. "Would you mind—if I parked you for about twenty minutes?"

She shook her head.

Aggie walked away from the shore. Beth took his place on the stern seat and commenced to paddle in random circles. When the woods had closed behind him, he ran. He had a long, light stride; his wind was good. Within six minutes, he covered more than half a mile. The path forked away from the lake. Its branch was indistinct, like the old road down which he had hurried on his second night at Indian Stones. When he came near the abandoned summer house, he began to walk, and took care not to break a twig or let a branch fly back.

There was an opening. Aggie stopped at its edge, behind a tree. The pergola—or gazebo—was made of fieldstone, part toppled, all grown with vines. It stood on a grassy rise, overlooking a valley at the end of which were rugged, hazy mountains. He surveyed it before leaving his sanctuary: the remnants of an apple orchard which the storms had left, and the stone fantasy itself—a Victorian incredibility built for almost no reason and abandoned for the same cause. His thoughts, as if elevated by the rise of his breathing, came in a quick sequence. There were three of them:

One was the reiterated note that Danielle had said there was nothing at the pergola; but nobody, so far as he knew, had examined it to be sure.

The second was a feeling—a pang—at the forgotten spectacle itself, the place where he had spent so many days in boyhood games.

The third was an intuition—minutes passed. Aggie unfolded his legs as if they were stiff, and walked slowly back across the field. He increased his pace as he re-entered the woods.

Words of Wisdom

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion—it is easy in solitude to live after your own; but the great man is he who, in the midst of the world, keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.—Emerson.

Hints on Etiquette

Don't use profanity when you are talking in company. Women feel it an affront when a man swears continually, and men don't like their women to have to listen to such a line of talk.

Today's Horoscope

If this is your birthday, you have a keen intellect, are conscientious in your work and like to study. You enjoy literature and the arts, and are inclined to be critical in your opinions. Your judgment is sound and may be trusted. You will seek a strong, resourceful mate when you are ready to marry. Today you might make a hit with someone who appreciates your wit and cleverness, due to the favorable Mercury vibrations. Or possibly you may make a worthwhile connection with a sports promoter.

BEWARE THE LATE BID

WHEN A SMART player passes on his first turn and later makes a terrific jump, it will pay you to pause and consider before deciding his delayed bid indicated weakness. Maybe he is only trying to trap you into a double. So if you fall for it, you have only yourself to blame. But if you are like most pretty good players, you are only human when you snap at the bait.

That looked like a juicy double to West, who had passed with almost an opening bid hand and who had a bidding partner. South, canny Nathan Trivers of the famous Shuffeboard club at St. Petersburg, Fla., had made his hand seem weak by his first pass. Furthermore, if he had opened with the bad bid of 5-Diamonds—had because his hand had some defensive strength with the ace—East never would have had a chance to stick in his spade call and so West could not have felt so safe about doubling.

West opened the A of his partner's spades, and repeated the suit, south ruffing. Seeing that heart situation was doubtful—if East happened to have the A-Q—Mr. Trivers used a sounder play for his contract.

One high trump dropped the outstanding two, then he went after clubs, leading to the A-K for one heart discard. He ruffed a third-round club, led to the diamond 9, ruffed a fourth-round club, setting up the 7, returning to dummy with the diamond 8 and on the last club discarded a second heart.

Now he didn't care who had the heart A. It happened to be where the play of hearts would have been safe. But he retained the chance for that play, if necessary—as would have been the case if the outstanding clubs had been divided five in one hand and only two in the other. As it was, he got the extra points for making his doubled contract by playing in the best possible way.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, February 21

THE planetary configurations indicate a most propitious time for a concentration of the forces and available resources, to go after, with skill and well laid plans, cherished desires or advanced goals. In this, the substantial support and cooperation of influential persons, superiors, or employers are essential, while all such objectives must be pushed to satisfactory conclusions on a basis of worth and sound constructive techniques. Carelessly prepared propositions may be factors for failure or lost prestige.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year in which well developed plans, carefully organized and detailed, may be presented to those whose cooperation and interest are vital to ambitious projects. Genuine talents, skills, concentrated assets and resources should achieve such favors, when reckless or half-baked propositions would invite failure and lost opportunity. New agreements and contracts, cleverly engineered, should lead to real profit and gratification, although some change or travel may be entailed.

A child born on this day will be very clever, versatile, talented, and will attract substantial cooperation from those in high places. Some discipline as to thrift should be helpful in early life.

Sugar that has become so hard it is not useable can be put in a cloth and pounded with a hammer. When it has been pounded small, roll it with your rolling pin. If you cannot reduce it all to its granulated state, you can melt the remaining lumps into simple syrup which can be used in beverages, on fruit and for cooking.

70 Present At Annual Guest Day Tea of DAR

Home of Regent Scene of Big Assembly

About 70 members and guests were entertained Tuesday at the annual Guest Day tea of the Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the affair being at the home of Mrs. Charles H. May, South Court street, regent of the chapter. The tea was planned as a souvenir of the Gay Nineties, the program including a splendid paper, "American Gothic," by Mrs. Walter Barrett, of the Nathaniel Massie Chapter, D. A. R., Chillicothe, and music of the period in charge of Mrs. James P. Moffitt and Miss Abbe Mills Clarke.

Mrs. Barrett's paper discussed the period of 50 years ago in American life, and told of the events that transpired in the cycle of a year in her life as a small girl in Chillicothe. The events were interwoven with a running commentary on the times and customs and proved gayly reminiscent to the guest group.

Miss Eleanor Beck pleased the audience with her two lovely solos, "The Sacrament" and "Sleepy." Miss Clarke playing the piano accompaniments. Mrs. Joseph Peters sang "After the Ball was Over," a ballad of the Gay Nineties, with Miss Clarke as accompanist. Mrs. Moffitt led the group singing of various numbers interspersed during the program.

The chapter opened in ritualistic form with Mrs. May, regent, and Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, chaplain, in charge. The chapter members repeated the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and joined in singing one verse of the National Anthem.

Reports of various committee heads acquainted the guests of varied activities and accomplishments of the Pickaway Plains chapter for the last year. Miss Marie L. Hamilton gave the highlights of the work in connection with approved schools.

Mrs. Clark K. Hunsicker gave a report of the National Buddy Bag project and gave pertinent facts from a letter received by her from Mrs. Arthur C. Houghton, National Chairman of Buddy Bags. Mrs. Houghton thanked Mrs. Hunsicker for the two large boxes of Buddy Bags received from Pickaway Plains Chapter, the 26 bags being the nicest ones that had been received in a long time, as so many come insufficiently filled and require added articles. The bags sent by the local chapter contained small Testaments and because of the time sent, valentines, to amuse and interest the men in hospitals who would receive them. The bags were added to those that had come in response to an urgent plea for bags for the men in the Coast Guard, now in the far Southwest Pacific. She said that 500 would be started on their way immediately. Mrs. Houghton mentioned also the 39 bags sent by the local chapter to Walter Reed General Hospital.

Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Red Cross chairman, reported that the members had completed 1900 hours of work on various projects. She said also that three of the chapter members, Mrs. Christian Schwarz, Mrs. Clark K. Hunsicker and Miss Elsie Jewell were to receive D. A. R. pins for completing each 750 hours of work for the Red Cross.

Mrs. Bernard Young, Pickaway County Girl Scout Commissioner, told of the growth of Girl Scouting in a year's time. She thanked the chapter for sponsoring a troop and mentioned that the goal for the year was five new troops. The troop committee of the D. A. R. sponsored group includes Mrs. Hunsicker, chairman, Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Mrs. Forrest Brown, Mrs. R. R. Bales and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson.

Mrs. May read an informative letter from the president general, Mrs. Mae E. Tallmadge, cancelling the National Congress meeting for the year, all reports to be mailed. Many of the national projects, those of the last year and those planned for the future, were presented by Mrs. May.

Miss Elsie Jewell, treasurer, reported the various amounts donated by the chapter to war projects.

Mrs. Moffitt sang, "Just a Song at Twilight," and the meeting closed with group singing.

Lace-edged mats were used under the various articles on the table and fern fronds were used on the cloth. The appointments included silver spoonholders, glass cream and sugar sets, and silver cake holders. The table was centered with a decorated cake on a tall glass cake stand.

Members of the hostess committee were Mrs. May, Mrs. Glenn I. Nickerson, Mrs. Dwight L. Steele, Miss Alice Ada May, Mrs. T. D. Harman, Mrs. Oliver Hosterman, Mrs. Harry D. Jackson, Mrs. T. L. Cromley, Mrs. Henry S. Lewis, Mrs. Clarence Squires, Mrs. R. D. Workman and Mrs. Frank Bennett.

Girl Scouts

Girl Scout "Thinking Day" to be celebrated on February 22, George Washington's birthday, will climax an active month for the Girl Scouts of Pickaway county. The projects planned for February as international month by Mrs. Walter Heine, Juliette Low member of the Council and chairman of the international committee, had as their aims a greater understanding of Juliette Low and her efforts to join nations in friendship through the medium of girl scouting, better knowledge of the value of the Memorial Fund to Juliette Low, its use, and purpose. Each troop in Pickaway county is planning to make a contribution to this fund.

Each troop too, under the several leaders and assistant leaders, has a definite program planned to foster international feeling and good fellowship.

Troop 1, led by Miss Doris Schreiner, is working on a Chinese exhibit; Troop 2, with Mrs. George Roth, Jr., as leader, has elected to represent the flags and emblems of other countries. Troop 3, under the leadership of Miss Harriet McGath, is working on costumes of other countries. Miss Ruth Stout's Senior service scouts of Troop 4 are planning songs, maps, and scouting of other countries. Ashville's Troop 6, with Mrs. H. S. Wilson as leader will work on kits for Russian families, a project planned by the Russian Relief to aid those refugees expecting to return home to war devastated areas. Troop 5, Mrs. Ray Davis' Troop is learning about the scouting costumes of other countries. Mrs. Don Henry's Troop 7 will tell "where the pennies go" by means of maps showing how the Juliette Low money is distributed. Troop 8, also a Senior Troop under Mrs. William Radcliff has the "Daily Living Scrapbook" as its project, a scrap book of pictures of foods, clothing, and just daily living of our country to be exchanged with scout headquarters of some foreign land.

It is planned that these projects may be reviewed at the house-warming in March of the new girl scout headquarters located above the Cussins & Fearn store.

Royal Neighbors

The Circleville group of Royal Neighbors of America met in regular session Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Peters, 313 South Court street. A pot-luck dinner preceded the regular meeting.

Mrs. Opal Leist, oracle, conducted the business meeting. All officers were present. It was announced that the next meeting, March 6, would be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGath, 929 South Washington street.

The members were all called to attention when Staff Sergeant Reynold Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Peters, called his parents on the phone from somewhere in the South Pacific. S/Sgt. Greene is doing special intelligence military work there and reports that he is in the best of health. He talked for 14 minutes, each member of the family speaking to him briefly. S/Sgt. Greene, who has been in overseas service for three years, said that he hoped to be home on furlough in May. He told his family that the weather where he was stationed was beautiful and that he was about 7,000 miles from home.

Logan Elm Grange

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Aken were received by delectable members of Logan Elm grange at the meeting Tuesday in Pickaway school auditorium. Frank Graves, worthy master, was in charge of the formal opening and urged all members to visit the Blood Bank service as donors Monday and Tuesday at the First Methodist church. Plans for a box social for March 20 were discussed.

The program included group singing; reading, "Life of Lincoln"; Mrs. Frank Graves; recitation, "Little Boy's Hatchet," Donald Maxson; in observance of Valentine's Day, Mrs. John Miller and Mrs. Fairy Alkire sang, "Love's Old Sweet Song"; reading, "Washington's Life," Mrs. Turney Pontius; quiz, "What do you know about your President?"

Mrs. Charles Kiger and her committee will be in charge of the program for the next meeting.

Washington Grange

Washington grange will meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. at Washington school auditorium.

D. U. V.

Members of the Daughters of Union Veterans voted a donation of $15 to the Red Cross at the regular meeting Tuesday in the Post room, Memorial hall. Mrs. L. E. Foreman, president, was in the chair. It was reported that the Past Presidents' club of the D.U.V. had voted a donation of $5 to the Red Cross at its meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. John Newton, North Court street.

The program in charge of Mrs. Clara DeLong, tent patriotic instructor, observed the birthday anniversaries of Lincoln and Washington.

"Lincoln's Gettysburg Address" was read by Mrs. Myrtle Trimmer; "Lincoln's Dream," Mrs. Frank Webb; "Lincoln," Mrs. E. L. Tolbert; "Lincoln's Tribute to Washington," Mrs. DeLong; "The Death of Lincoln," Mrs. Frank Rader. Miss Emma Mader interested the group with a talk on her father's

Salt Creek Valley Grange

Members of Salt Creek Valley grange enjoyed a cooperative supper Tuesday at the meeting in Salt Creek township school, 45 gathering for the evening. During the business hour, the grange voted to give $25 to the Red Cross.

A letter from George Macklin, a granger in overseas service, was read.

The committee for refreshments at the next session included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. George Rihl, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Bowsher and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar DeLong.

Miss Helen Cryder, of the Pickaway county extension service, led the group in folk games during the affair.

The patriotic program on George Washington included readings by Dwight Rector, Jr., Mrs. I. M. Friece, Miss Anna Pontius, and Max Luckhart; a piano solo, Eileen Wolfe, and two vocal solos by Beatrice Bochart, accompanied by Mrs. Dorian Bochart.

Nebraska Grange

Nebraska grange met Tuesday in the grange hall with Joseph Peters, worthy master, in the chair. The charter was draped in memory of Lloyd Fausnaugh, who was killed in the service of his country.

The grange voted $25 to the Red Cross.

The program arranged by Mrs. Russell Hedges, worthy lecturer, opened with group singing; the men answered roll call by telling of the handiest thing they had on the farm; song, "John Brown's Flivver," with motions by the group; recitation, "A Long Word," Linda Silbaugh.

Two reels of motion pictures were shown by C. D. Bennett, assisted by Wayne Jones. They were "Yesterday and Today" and "My Model Farm."

Harold Hines won the prize in the telegram contest.

The next session, March 6, will have a food production program, special speaker and music.

BASEBALL HEADS TALK TO BYRNES

Future Of Game Appears Brighter Following Capital Meeting

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Baseball's 1945 prospects appeared brighter today after a conference between the major league presidents and War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes yesterday brought forth no new obstacles for the sport.

Ford Frick of the National league and Will Harridge of the American league were optimistic after the hour-long conference on "manpower" and said that they were all set to complete plans for the opening of the season in April.

Frick and Harridge were to see one other government official today to wind up their trip here. They would not reveal his name. But it was believed that he was Col. J. Monroe Johnson, head of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Frick said during an interview that he and Harridge did not come to Washington for a flat statement of policy on baseball's future. Rather, he said, they came to discuss and to weigh their problems against those the government has in mobilizing production and the armed forces. They can then determine, he said, whether it will be worth while going on with plans for the 1945 season.

Neither would reveal the exact nature of their conference with Byrnes.

Frick emphasized that no one should jump to the conclusion that the meeting was decisive. No request was made for another session with Byrnes, Frick said, and no future meeting is planned now.

BOWLING ALLEYS WILL COMPLY WITH CURFEW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—The nation's bowling alleys will comply with the midnight curfew on entertainment spots, Chairman A. L. Ebersole of the National Bowling council said today after conferring with government officials.

Ebersole said he requested the conference because there seemed to be a doubt whether bowling could be classed as "entertainment" inasmuch as no state requires alleys to pay amusement taxes.

"The discussion convinced me it would be very short sighted to suggest opposition to the ban," he said. "We are no different from any other morale builder, like the movies for instance."

He said his only exception to the ban might be to seek a special arrangement whereby alleys in Cleveland and Cincinnati can remain open until 3 a. m. for late shift war workers.

"WHAT'S WRONG IN CHINA?"
"What's Wrong in China?"
Some experts maintain that unity against the Japanese is missing because the Chinese Communists refuse to cooperate with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, others argue that the Communists are perfectly willing to cooperate, but the Generalissimo will not use the Red Army unless he can control it and its political power. Opposing viewpoints on this important question will be debated on "America's Town Meeting," Thursday, Lin Yutang, author of the new book, "The Vigil of a Nation," and Rep. Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.) insists that the blame for lack of unity in China rests with the Communists. Harrison Forman, foreign correspondent who has just returned to this country after four years in China, the last five months in Red China, joins another expert in upholding the cause of the Communists.

Marian Anderson, famous concert contralto, will make her first visit to the Kraft Music Hall program as guest of Bing Crosby's program Thursday.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

The M. P.'s grabbed a man in civilian clothes trying to leave Fort Dix the other day with a soldier's uniform tucked under his arm. "Tired of army life, Bud?" they asked as they took the man into the gatehouse for questioning. It took exactly thirty minutes and a telephone call to the commanding officer to convince the M. P.'s that the man they had picked up was Don McLaughlin, the radio actor who stars on "David Harding-Counterspy." He had been on the post making a picture short for the army on service men's rehabilitation.

WALT DISNEY TO SPEAK

Council Advances Program for Sewer System Improvement

ENGINEER TO PREPARE PLANS FOR PROJECTS

Construction Expected To Get Under Way When Weather Breaks

Further plans for the improvement of the sewer system in Circleville were made at the meeting of city council Tuesday night.

For the first time in weeks no ordinances or resolutions were passed at the meeting but councilmen went on record as approving an order to the service director to employ an engineer to draw plans for sewer projects which have been proposed for the city. Service Director Clarence Helvering reported it would be impossible to construct sewers with the amount of help now employed. It was suggested that after plans for the projects were ready that bids be taken on the construction of the sewers.

It was pointed out that immediate action on the projects was necessary in order to get the work started when the weather is suitable. Solicitor Adkins stated it would take time to prepare and approve necessary legislation and advertise for bids. He said unless plans were made at once the projects could not be finished during the summer months.

Eye Rate Ordinance

Councilmen agreed to meet with Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company officials at the next regular meeting to discuss a proposed rate ordinance and street lighting.

Solicitor Joe Adkins reported that special policemen were requesting a raise in pay.

Councilman George Crites reported the following balances in city funds as of February 20: general fund, $11,484.49; sewage disposal, $13,327.49; library, $4,446.06; auto street repair, $6,637.40; gasoline tax, $1,339.70; Berger hospital, $3,112.05. Parking meter collections to February 20 totaled $735.70.

The January relief report read by Councilman Crites revealed the total relief cost for the month was $1,546.91. The city's share was 47.84 per cent or $670.86, half of which is paid by the state. The report showed that the city now owes the county $1,849.35 for relief.

Following reading of the report councilmen voted to have a committee check the list of persons receiving relief.

11 councilmen were present.

HOTT MUSIC CO. OFFERS RECORDS IN ALL CLASSES

Albums of popular and classical recordings will be featured at the Hott Music company's new store which will open at 134 West Main street, Circleville, Saturday.

Harold Hott, who will manage the store, announced he would have a complete line of current and old "hard-to-get" records at all times. The store room has been redecorated and the stock of records is assembled in racks. The store also will offer a wide variety of instrumental and vocal records, popular and "hill-billy" music, and selections by all the big name bands.

The store will feature RCA Victor and Bluebird records and also sell Columbia, Okeh, Decca and Capitol records. Accessories for record machines will be carried in stock.

Saltcreek Valley

Quite a large number from here are attending the tournament games in Circleville.

Saltcreek Valley—Mrs. Jennie and Pearl Strous under their dwelling house prepa- have been excavating a basement ratory to installing a hot air furnace.

Saltcreek Valley—Edgar Creager, of near Stouts- ville, has been moving to the farm, near Pleasant View church, recently purchased by Russell Jones.

Saltcreek Valley—Saltcreek Valley Grange No. 2314 met in regular session last Tuesday evening. The attendance was good and a nice program was presented. Master Judson Beogher was in charge of the business meeting.

Circleville Rotarians will observe the anniversary of the local club and that of Rotary International at the meeting Thursday at 11:45 a. m. in Pickaway Arms. Dr. G. D. Phillips will headline the program with "It Is Time To Celebrate."

ASHVILLE

The Ashville-Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhood will meet Wednesday evening at Lockbourne at 7:00, when a pot luck supper will be served. All members are urged to be present.

Annual inspection of the Lockbourne Lodge No. 232, F. & A. M. will be held Thursday, February 22, with Andrew J. White, District Deputy Master acting as the inspecting officer.

Ashville's varsity basketball squad, together with a few dads and teachers, was permitted to inspect a part of Fletcher hospital and to eat in the base personnel mess hall Monday evening, prior to the Ashville-Norton basketball game played in Fletcher hospital gym for the benefit of wounded and ill war veterans quartered there.

Fletcher hospital, which was built to accommodate 1500 patients, now has approximately 1800 patients and, like most hospitals, has a shortage of trained nurses, which is helped somewhat by volunteer nurse's aids who give one or two weeks of their time to help relieve the shortage of nurses. A small detachment of German prisoners of war are stationed at the hospital where they are engaged in digging sewer ditches and in other rough work. These prisoners are good workers and have not yet learned the American custom of loafing on the job. These men are also available for farm work in squads of eight or more, accompanied by a guard.

Among patients seen at the game were George Myers who once lived in Ashville and who attended the first grade here, and Lawrence Lane, a Circleville boy, who once was a truck driver for William Plum and Son of Ashville. Both Myers and Lane were wounded near St. Lo at the time of the German breakthrough. Lane expects to be furloughed soon, after "sweating out" a 30-day stay at the hospital. Miracles of surgery are performed daily at the hospital. One boy, who had five inches of bone shot away from his leg, was able to play basketball on the base team, after recovering from a bone-grafting operation. Injured veterans are given an opportunity to learn corrective exercises to overcome weaknesses and are given an opportunity to learn a trade, if they are unable to return to active duty. Almost 75% of the boys receiving treatment at Fletcher hospital return to regular duty in the Army or Navy. At one time over 320 patients were unloaded and moved into the hospital within 26 minutes. These boys are tagged and assigned rooms before they arrive at the hospital, so there is no delay in getting them to a room. The hospital sponsored a football team in the Fall, and now has a basketball team. Both teams are made up of wounded veterans and base personnel, supplemented by civilian players who live nearby. The WAC's stationed at Fletcher are organizing a volleyball team, and have scheduled a match with nearby Muskingum college.

Following the exciting game between Ashville and Norton, the members of the team, the cheerleaders, and other followers returned to the Cambridge Service Center, where Miss Helen Bowers, the assistant director of the center, had prepared a lunch for the Ashville delegation. Miss Bowers, a former Ashville teacher, arranged the game between Ashville and Norton.

One of the interesting sidelights of the game was the excellent performance of Boughman, the tall Norton center, who accounted for all Norton's points in the third quarter. In fact, he scored all Norton's points beginning in the second quarter when the Norton total was 10 until their score was 29, thus making 19 consecutive points for his team; one of the longest scoring sprees the writer has seen. During the fourth quarter Norton scored only two free throws, both by Dunham, to bring the total score to Norton 31, Ashville 30. The consensus of opinion of the spectators was that Ashville displayed better floor work, better shooting ability, and better ball handling than Norton, which was able to eke out a narrow one-point victory largely due to its height advantage and its control of the bankboards during the first quarter. After the first quarter Ashville took command of the bankboards and, time after time, stole the ball from their taller opponents. Another game between the same teams would no doubt result in another thrill with Ashville likely to reverse the tables.

Under date of Jan. 26, Cpl. Harold Myers writes from France that he is well and sends his best wishes to the Ashville team. Cpl. Myers was a member of the Ashville reserve team and a substitute player on the varsity during his high school days at Ashville. eveninga-hiG smaller Cafe Society uptown kicks in with $12,000 monthly.

Barney Josephson, owner of this latter club and Cafe Society downtown, in Greenwich Village, said quickly after the announcement of the ban that he would convert both places to restaurants Monday. Today he wasn't so sure. He has just signed four-week contracts with performers for a new show to open next Monday and he may have to string along with them for the time being.

This contract matter is a real headache to the managements. Performers are members of the AFL American Guild of Variety Artists and musicians belong to the AFL American Federation of Musicians, which is bossed by James Caesar Petrillo, a tough man when it comes to money matters. No one on either side knows just what will be done about adjusting existing contracts.

Although the curfew order applies to all places of amusement the chief interest here centered in the night club business. The legitimate theatres will not be affected because they are through for the night shortly after 11 o'clock. The after-midnight movie business is a drop in the bucket and theatres that have been showing films after that hour will not be out any great amounts. Ordinary bars may be hard hit, depending on whether the steady customers do or do not decide to consume as much liquor before midnight as they are accustomed to spreading out over a longer period. Ballrooms customarily close around 1 or 1:30 a. m. and will not lose too heavily. Hotels, with their bars and night club rooms, will take a loss, but it will not be comparable to that of the straight cabarets. Bowling alleys will be big losers.

Concerning the reasons given by Mobilization Director James A. Byrnes for the curfew, these seemed to be general agreement that the saving of fuel would be minor. Most clubs have the steam on early in the evening and then turn it off because body heat of the crowds keeps things comfortable from then on. Anyone who ever tried to read a menu in a night club knows they don't waste electricity.

Only a small portion of any males let out by the clubs would be able to get defense jobs. Most of them will be waiters and other help, middle-aged or better, and they just aren't adaptable enough at this stage of life to become war plant workers. Carl Erbe, co-owner of the Cafe Zanzibar, said he investigated the records of his employees some time ago and found that a number of them had applied for war jobs at various times and been turned down when the only experience they could give was as waiters.

From the transportation angle, Walters pointed out that the people have to go home sometime anyway.

"And if you're going to turn them loose all at the same time instead of gradually, it will put a strain on transit facilities," he added. "I don't see where there would be any saving."

The only thing certain about the future today was that the owners are going to come up with a variety of experiments in the hope that these will enable them to survive the curfew until the restriction is removed. Their main goal will be to try and educate the public to arrive earlier but the chief trouble here is that most of the second show patrons come from theatres.

Four of the city's best known and smartest spots have no entertainment policy to speak of—dance bands in two cases—but they catch a lot of early morning drinking and food trade. They are Sherman Billingsley's Stork Club, the Monte Carlo, El Morocco and 21. Jack Kriendler, co-owner of the latter, pointed out that it is a restaurant instead of a night club, and besides it has been closing at 1 a. m. ever since the war started.
